General Strongs
Private despatch 117
dated Jerusalem,
22nd Oct 1841.

Nothing of Bishop Alexandrie interesting to him the desirable point of relating to the fact in case of war.

copy. Jerusalem, 19th Oct 1841.

Sir,

I have the honor to report to You, that Yesterday Bishop Alexander and the Reverend Mr Veitch received communications from M. de Lantivy, warning them of the danger of going outside of the City, and recommending them to have their houses well guarded at night. - M. de Lantivy stated to the Rev^d Mr Nicolayson, on his going to him on the part of Bishop Alexander for some explanation of the alarming communication which he had sent him, that the Sacha had just been with him, and told him that he could not be answerable for any ones safety, that the ~~Sheiks~~ Sheiks were in open rebellion.

revolt, that he had no Troops, and that it was not unlikely he might be compelled to abandon the City, and to seek refuge for himself and his people in the Castle, and that he suspected treachery inside the City. —

Upon receiving a visit from these Gentlemen, and hearing from them the serious nature of the communication which they had received from M. de Santivy, I sent at once to Haider Pacha with a request to be informed by him, of the real state of the case. — He replied, that he hoped and trusted there was no danger within the City, at the same time, after what had happened, it was impossible to say what consequences might follow, even his own life was not safe, and he thought it right to warn us not to go outside the City, at all events not any distance, as parties of Fellahs were ^{seen} seen to approach very close to the walls and it might be with a hostile intention. —

His Excellency particularly requested that I would mention to You, the absolute necessity of Troops being sent to Jerusalem without delay. —

Upon hearing this intelligence I sent to M. de Santivy to thank him for the attention which he had shown to my Subjects in such circumstances, and which I did to open the way for a personal communication with him, respecting what was going on. — M. de Santivy mentioned also to my Bro Chancellor, that all the roads were stopped, and that several heads had been demanded by the Fellah, both Musulman and Christian.

Although there is always cause for alarm in these Countries, under similar circumstances, for it is impossible to know what course open Rebellion may take take, when Blood has once been shed, especially after attacking the Authorities; yet I consulted with the leading British Subjects here, and it was agreed that we should shew as little symptom of alarm as possible, but rather wait patiently, and see the developement of the affair.

I had a long interview with M. de Lantivy; he made much of what was going on, and dwelt on the utter helplessness of the Local Government, and rather mysteriously, of the circumstances of the heads of certain parties having been asked for, but without indicating names; he said Mussulman and Christian, with a great stress; he condemned the Pacha's mode of administration of affairs here, and extolled Sheik Mustafa Said.

The City People are very much on the alert and parties patrol at night, but there

there is no actual means ^{of defence} in case of attack. — 422

And I must say, I think it reflects little Credit on the Turkish Government, that a City like Jerusalem, should be left so long without Troops, and the proper means of defending itself against a simple attack by the Fellah.

I have the honor to be
Sir,

Your most obedient Humble Servant

(Signed) W^m. J. Young.

P.S. There is mystery in all the French Consul does and says.

If one of Her Majesty's Ships could visit Jaffa, it would have a good effect.

The French Consul tells me that he is not recalled, but expects to go on leave by and by.
